The Airports Authority Of India Act, 1994(55 OF 1994)

250.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.-Until 1971, the Director General of Civil Aviation was entrusted with the responsibility not only of regulatory functions relating to civil aviation but also of construction and management of airports, air traffic control and air space management in the country.² Considering the need for heavy investments and operational flexibility required for construction and management of large airports, the International Airports Authority of India (IAAI) was constituted as an autonomous body under the International Airports Authority Act, 1971. - Four international airports, namely, Delhi, Bombay, Madras and Calcutta were transferred to IAAI with effect from 1-4-1972; later, Trivandrum airport was also transferred to IAAI. In 1985, it was felt that a similar treatment was required for domestic airports and air traffic control and related services. Consequently, National Airports Authority (NAA) was constituted under the National Airports Authority Act, 1985.³ International airports are put to more intensive use and generate substantial revenues which accrue to IAAI. Revenues of NAA are much less buoyant because a number of its airports do not have any commercial air service whatsoever while many others have only infrequent operations. NAA has, therefore, not been able to generate adequate resources to meet the requirements of development and modernisation. To overcome this handicap and provide for closer integration in the management of airports and air traffic contract services in the country, it has been found necessary to merge the IAAI and the NAA, which the Bill seeks to achieve.⁴ The salient features of the Bill are:- (a) Constitution of a single unified Airports Authority of India to control and manage both the national and international airports in the country and transfer and vesting of the undertakings of the International Airports Authority of India and National Airports Authority in the said Airports Authority of India. (b) Repeal of the International Airports Authority of India Act,

1971 and the National Airports Authority Act, 1985.(c) All licenses, permits, quotas and exemptions granted to the International Airports Authority of India or the National Airports Authority be deemed to have been granted to the Airports Authority of India.(d) Guarantees given for or in favour of the International Airports Authority of India or the National Airports Authority to continue to be operative in relation to the Airports Authority of India.(e) Every officer or other employee of the international Airports Authority of India and the National Airports Authority, serving in its employment immediately before the appointed day, to become an officer or other employee, as the case may be, of the Airports Authority of India, with option to resign.(f) Power of the Central Government to give directions to the Airports Authority of India.Amendment Act 43 of 2003-Statement of Objects and Reasons.-At present, the Airports Authority of India is a statutory organisation under the administrative control of the Government of India, Ministry of Civil Aviation. It manages 94 civil airports and 28 civil enclaves at defence airports in the country.2. There is need to improve the standard of services and facilities at the airports to bring them at par with international standards. To facilitate the process for such improvement, there is need, both for the infusion of private sector investments as also for restructuring of airports. This will speed up airport infrastructure development, improve managerial efficiency, increase local responsiveness and improve service levels. It will, in turn, generally stimulate the economy by boosting tourism and trade. It has been decided to undertake the task of restructuring the airports under the Airports Authority of India as well as to encourage private participation for the greenfield airports in the country. Since the Airports Authority of India Act, 1994 is applicable to all airports whereat air transport services are operated or are intended to be operated, significant private sector investments in such project require an effective legal framework within which the investors would feel safe and secure about their operational and managerial independence. To achieve these purposes, the Bill proposes to amend the various provisions of the said Act. The salient features of the Bill are as under:-(i) It amends Section 1 as well as section 2 of the Act to exclude the private airports from the purview of the Act except for certain limited purposes and to provide for definition of a private airport. The proposed amendment would also provide adequate comfort levels to enhance investors' confidence and to ensure a level playing field to private sector greenfield airports by lifting control of the Airports Authority of India except in certain respects.(ii) It inserts new clause (aa) in sub-section (3) of section 12 and a new section 12-A in the Act. This amendment will enable the Airports Authority of India to establish airport or assist in the establishment of private airports and also to lease the airport premises to private operators with the prior approval of the Central Government. By this amendment, some of the functions of the Airports Authority of India can be assigned to lessees subject to the exception that air traffic services and watch and ward functions will continue to be provided by the Airports Authority of India.(iii) It inserts section 22-A in the Act empowering the Authority, after the previous approval of the Central Government, to levy on the embarking passengers at an airport the development fees to be credited to the Authority which shall be regulated and utilised in the prescribed manner for funding and financing the costs of upgradation, expansion or development of airports and for the establishment or development of new airports in lieu of existing airports and for the investment in the equity in respect of shares to be subscribed by the authority in companies engaged in establishing, owning, developing, operating or maintaining private airports or advancement of loans to such companies or other persons engaged in such activities. This amendment will make the projects, relating to construction of greenfield airports, economically viable by such fee collections.(iv) It also inserts a new Chapter V-A relating to eviction of unauthorised occupants, etc., of airport premises. It provides for the appointment of eviction officers and a Tribunal to obviate the menace of large scale encroachment and unlawful occupation of airport premises and to decide the cases relating thereto.[12th September, 1994]An Act to provide for the constitution of the Airports Authority of India and for the transfer and vesting of the undertakings of the International Airports Authority of India and the National Airports Authority to and in the Airports Authority of India so constituted for the better administration and cohesive management of airports and civil enclaves whereat air transport services are operated or are intended to be operated and of all aeronautical communication stations [for the purposes of establishing or assisting in the establishment of airports] [Inserted by Act 43 of 2003, Section 2 (w.e.f. 1.7.2004).] and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fifth Year of the Republic of India as follows:-

Brought into force on 1.4.1995 vide S.O. 285(E), dated 30.3.1995.
