The question of better marketing of agricultural produce has been examined on many occasions by high-powered commissions, committees and officers of the Government of India, e.g., the Royal Commission on Agriculture, the Rural Marketing and Finance Sub-Committee of the National Planning Committee of the Indian National Congress, the Marketing Sub-Committee of the Policy Committee (No. V) on agricultural, forestry and Fisheries of the Reconstruction Committee of Council. 1945, the Congress Agrarian Reforms Committee, 1947, the Cotton Marketing Committee. 1951 the Thapar Committee, 1953, the Committee of Directors of the All India Rural Credit Survey of the Reserve Bank of India, 1954, the Conferences on Marketing and Co-operation held at Hyderabad and Jaipur in November, 1955 and February, 1956, respectively and the Seminar on Regulated Markets held in Mysore in 1959. In the light of the experience gained of the different aspect of the problem, and the recommendations of the Commissions and Committees, certain amendments have also been incorporated in the Bill, the important of which are -(1) the scope of agricultural produce has been widened to include the produce of horticulture, animal husbandry and forest; (2) disqualification attached to a producer for appointment to a market committee to represent producers because of membership of a co-operative society has been removed; (3) provision in giving representation on market committees to co-operative societies operating in the notified market has been made ; (4) market committees have been empowered to suspend licences of dealers for ten days; (5) power has been vested in the market committees to compound minor offences ; (6) for the proper administration of the market committees it is proposed to establish and constitute a State Agricultural Marketing Board on the lines of the PEPSU Act; (7) members and employees of the market committees and the Agricultural Board have been made liable for loss, waste and misapplication of the respective fund; (8) the State Agricultural Marketing Board has been given the power of superintendence and control over the market committees ; (9) power has been vested in the Chairman of the Board to transfer the employees of one market committee to another.
