The Army And Air Force (Disposal Of Private Property) Act, 1950(40 OF 1950)

Statement of Objects and Reasons.-The Army and Air Force (Disposal of Private Property) Bill is mainly based on the existing provisions in the Army and Air Force Acts. Experience has shown that it is advantageous to have such provisions incorporated in a separate Act and not embodied in the principal Acts as at present. Accordingly provisions relating to the disposal of private property have been incorporated separately in the above mentioned Bill.2. In preparing the new Bill opportunity has been taken to remove doubts, defects and lacunae that existed in the present Acts and also, as far as possible and practicable, to make the provisions uniform for officers, junior commissioned officers and other ranks as there was some discontent chiefly amongst the junior commissioned officers owing to the differential treatment in the matter of disposal of estates under the existing law.Amendment Act 30 of 1970-. Under section 10 of the Army Air Force (Disposal Private Property) Act, 1950, movable property and money belonging to a person subject to the Army Act, 1950, or the Air Force Act, 1950, may be delivered or paid by the prescribed authority to the persons appearing to such authority to be entitled to such property and money, without requiring the production of any probate, letters of administration, succession certificate or other such conclusive evidence of title. This provision, however, applies only where the total amount or value of the property and money does not exceed five thousand rupees. In cases where the total amount or value exceeds five thousand rupees, the heirs of the deceased person are required to establish their title by production of evidence as mentioned above. In the case of persons subject to the Navy Act, 1957, section 176 of the Act makes provisions similar to those contained in section 10 of the Army and Air Force (Disposal of Private Property) Act, 1950.2. Obtaining of a succession certificate or other evidence of title as aforesaid from a Court of law involves expensive, troublesome and time consuming procedure. The figures of the last few years indicate that a large number of cases where the amount or value of the property and money exceeded five thousand rupees could not be disposed of within a reasonable time mainly due to the requirement of production of succession certificate, etc., resulting in great hardship to the heirs of the persons belonging to the Army, Air Force or Navy. It is therefore, proposed to amend section 10 of the Army and Air Force (Disposal of Private Property) Act, 1950, and section 176 of the Navy Act, 1957, to raise the limit from five thousand rupees to ten thousand rupees. Act 31 of 2000.- Under section 10 of the Army and Air Force (Disposal of Private Property) Act, 1950, movable property and money belonging to a person subject to the Army Act, 1950 or the Air Force Act, 1950, may be delivered or paid by the prescribed authority to any person appearing to such authority to be entitled to such property and money, without requiring the production of any probate, letter of administration, succession certificate or other such conclusive evidence of title. This provision, however, applies only where the total amount of value of the property and money, does not exceed thousand rupees. In cases where the total amount or value exceeds ten thousand rupees, the heirs of the deceased person are required to establish their title by production of evidence as mentioned above.² Obtaining a succession certificate or other evidence of title as aforesaid from a court of law involves expensive, troublesome and time-consuming procedure. The figures of the last few years indicate that a large number of cases where the amount or value of the property and money exceeded ten thousand rupees could not be disposed of within a reasonable time mainly due to the requirement of production of a succession certificate, etc., resulting in great hardship to the heirs of the person belonging to the Army and the Air Force. It is, therefore, proposed to further amend section 10 of the Army and Air Force (Disposal of Private Property) Act, 1950 to raise the limit from ten thousand rupees to two lakh rupees. Sections 7 and 14 of the Act need amendments to reflect the short titles of the re-enacted Acts referred therein.³ The Bill seeks to achieve the above object - S.O.R. - Gazette of India, 25-2-1999, Pt.
