The return of ammunition boxes bandoliers and charges is not compulsory but such stores will be accepted by the I. A. O. C. and refunds granted.(4)The repairs or replacement of ammunition and stores found by Technical Inspector of the Ordnance Department to be defective will be made on payment unless the Inspector certifies that the defect is due to faulty manufacture or causes attributable to the supplying departments in which case the cost of repair or replacement and freight charges will be borne by the Ordnance Department.(5)Ammunition and explosives issued on payment which are re-turned to the arsenal and found to be unserviceable due to age limit or through causes not due to the supply department will be replaced on payment and no refund will be permissible, neither will any debit be raised by the supplying department for expenses, incurred in connection with the breakage of the stores.(6)Refund for stores returned, whether compulsory or voluntary will be replaced based on the condition in which stores are found on receipt by the I. D. O. E. who will be the final conditioning authority.(7)Credit notes to cover the compulsory return of stores to the I. A. O. C. will be issued, on application by the Ordnance Officer concerned.

The delivery voucher must be signed by the consignor and the receipt voucher duly signed by the consignee, returned to the former as soon as practicable after the stores have been received.(5)The delivery and receipt voucher accompanying stores ordered to be sent into the Arsenal for alteration, examination or repairs must be endorsed with the word "deposit" written in red ink in a conspicuous place. The stores while in deposit must not be struck off charge in the Stock Accounts, the Ordnance Officer's receipt in such cases not being a sufficient voucher for their writing off. In the event, however if the Director of Ordnance Stores ordering the retention at the Arsenal of any of the stores so returned, a regular receipt voucher will be furnished by the Ordnance Officer or Deputy Director, FPF with a view to their being written off the Stock Accounts.(6)The officer returning the stores should pay freight on the Ordnance Stores returned to the Arsenal before dispatch.(7)Cartridges, which misfire cut, or fail should be returned to the Arsenal with a report of their distinguishing mark and the unit Nos. of the arms with which the failure occurred, requisitions to replace the same being submitted.(8)Deputy Directors will immediately report, as they come to notice any defects in the ammunition they have on charge. In each case the date and place of manufacture and the quantity of that particular issue on hand and other details should be clearly specified.(9)Old lead bullets fired at practice by the Force should be recovered and returned to the Arsenal, packed in old ammunition boxes or, if these are not available, in sacking either in double bags or single bags. This lead should be weighed and accounted for in the Stock Account Register.(10)All packages containing empty cartridges cases or lead under return should be carefully sealed with a readily distinguishable seal before dispatch to the Arsenal, as such articles are otherwise extremely likely to be pilfered in transit.(11)Each of the packages should be marked with the nature, the number and the weight (exclusive of package) of the cases it contains.(12)In order to preclude the possibility of misfires and live rounds being mixed with fired cases, proper precautions should be taken.

148. Precautions against the issue of dummy or blank cartridges with live cartridges.

- Every officer who issues ammunition to armed men or parties proceeding on duty, and, the commander of each such party shall exercise special care to prevent dummy (drill) or blank rounds getting mixed up with live rounds, either at the time of issue or return of ammunition, and to prevent the substitution of rounds of local or other Non-Governmental manufacture.

149. Conditions for use of arms and ammunition by any member of the Force while performing duties under the Act.

A. Ammunition on Charge of FPF Units.General Instructions

1. Small arms ammunitions may be divided into two categories as follows :

(a)Ammunition in sealed boxes and in open boxes with their labels intact.(b)Pouch or loose ammunition which cannot be identified by make and date.Category A:(a)Ammunition in this category may be considered serviceable without test up to five years from date of manufacture provided that the boxes are intact and have not been subjected to bad storage conditions. The five years limit may be extended indefinitely provided that the ammunition has been used for practice and has given satisfactory result within the last twelve months.(b)Ammunition over five years old which has not been used for practice within the last twelve months, or ammunition in boxes -which appear to have been subjected to adverse storage conditions as indicated by rusty linings, etc., will be examined and subjected to a firing test.A sample box from each make and date of manufacture will be opened. The cartridges will be examined visually for evidence of verdigris around the cap and other signs of deterioration. Twenty rounds will be fired from each of 2 rifles or muskets into a bank of earth or other safe place to test for misfires, hangfires, split cases, pierced caps, bursts, etc.(c)If the ammunition looks good and fires without failure, it is serviceable.If the ammunition looks good and gives a misfire, marked hangfire, pierced cap, burst case split extending to within one inch of the case, or a detached base disc a retest, in different weapons will be carried out. If in the retest, any of the above defects occur, if the ammunition looks doubtful, showing slight vedigirs only, and if it passes firing test, it is serviceable. If any defect occurs at the firing test, it is unserviceable, providing the rifle or musket is known to be above suspicion.If the ammunition looks bad showing marked verdigris around the cap, it is unserviceable.The examination and test of the sample covers the remaining am-munition of the same make and date except when there is reason to believe that the box opened is not representative of the rest. In that case it will be necessary to examine and test the ammunition from each box. Note 1: When the number of boxes of one make and date is ten or under, they may be grouped with adjacent dates of the same make provided that the group of dates does not exceed 50 boxes and that the dates do not cover a period of more than 14 days. Note 2: The sample will be taken from an opened box if available. If the result is satisfactory the whole group will be sentenced serviceable. If the result is not satisfactory the sentence will only cover the actual box from which the rounds have been taken and a fresh box will be opened and treated as the sample for the group. Category B: (i) Loose rounds on charge, other than those obviously doubtful from Killing and carriage in pouches, will generally be treated as one group. Representative sample will be examined and 40 fired and the ammunition sentenced as for Category A. If there is a large number of loose, under on charge and some have obviously been subjected to worse treatment than the others. They should be bulked to groups according to "conditional", each group being tested and sentenced separately. (ii) The foregoing is intended to apply particularly to M. H. Rifles and B. L. /.476 bore ammunition. (iii) Special instructions for examination of B. L. .41044 and .45544 - revolver ammunition (a) The instructions in paragraph 1 apply also to the above mentioned ammunition with the following exceptions: The casualties that may occur are misfires, hangfires, pierced caps, blow-backs, burst cases or split cases. A blow-back is all escape of gas between the cap and the wall of the cap chamber, if serious, it will be indicated by an escape of gas from the gas escape hole on the left of the barrel body at the moment of firing. The base of the cartridge case will be badly blackened by this casualty. A burst case is a fracture either at the base or within 1.5 inches of the base of the cartridge case. Fractures further forward on the case body are known as splits and if only occasional may be ignored. Bursts are to be regarded as serious casualties. (iv) When in doubt as to sentence, the platter should be referred to the Chief Ordnance Officer at the nearest Arsenal who will arrange for such tests as may be necessary and advise accordingly. (v) Storage Boxes containing S. A. A. should be kept raised a few inches from the floor by supporting the bottom layer on battens or other suitable supports; they should also be kept a few inches clear of the wall. The store room should be kept clean and dry, ventilation receiving due attention. Tin plates linings should not ordinarily be opened until the ammunition is required for use or test.
